

registering on the second harvest food rescue app

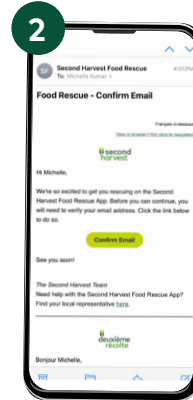

The Second Harvest Food Rescue App is an easy way to access food for your organization. This free app is available to any charity or non-profit in Canada. All you need to register is your charitable or non-profit number and a few minutes to add some organizational details. Once registered, you are notified about donations available in your region and can select only those that are helpful to you! This guide shows you how easy it is to become a food recipient on the Second Harvest Food Rescue App.

STEPS

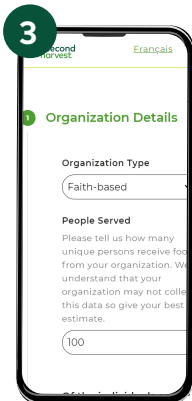

1 get started

Go to foodrescue.secondharvest.ca/registration or download the app from the App Store or Google Play. Provide the name of your organization and contact details to start your application. Complete the password setup.

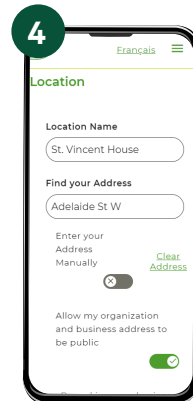

2 activation

An email is sent to the address provided. Click the link in the email, activating your account. You can now login to complete your application.

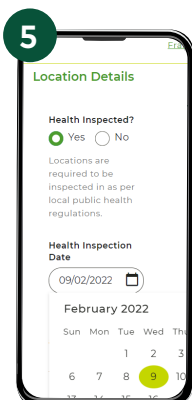

3 organization details

We need a bit of info about your organization and the work that you do. Let us know your organization type, number of people served and client demographics.

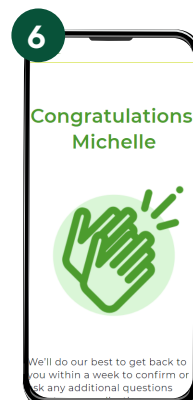

4 location

Our system matches you to donations based on your location. Tell us your address. We always keep addresses confidential unless you indicate they are public.

5 food safety

Food safety is so important to us and the food businesses you work with! Provide us with your health inspection date. If you don't have one, that's okay, some municipalities do not inspect all non-profits. Click No and tell us why.

6 congratulations!

We'll be in touch once we have reviewed your application and will let you know when you're ready to rescue food.
